Portrait photography is photography of a person or group of people that displays the expression, personality, and mood of the subject. The focus of the photograph is usually the person's face, although the entire body and the background or context may be included. Below are some of the photos captured throughout the afternoon.

Thank you to Louise Peacock and Helen Bishop for organising and running the portraiture workshop, and to the models who volunteered their time to make it all possible.

Year Bar Awards

Year bars are awarded by clubs to members in recognition of their years of active involvement with their club. They are presented at the annual VAPS Convention and are available for 10 – 65 years of service.

Congratulations to Brian Paatsch, Helen Bishop, Ian Bishop and Mary Singh for receiving their year badges at this year's VAPS Conference. Brian has been a member for 20 years and Helen, Ian and Mary have been a member for 10 years.

HELPFUL TIPS

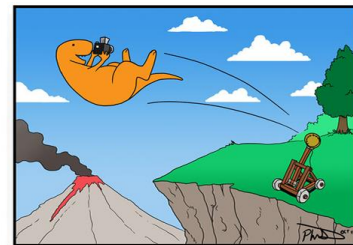

Get Up High

Our September competition is all about changing your perspective and approaching your subject from above. This is a wonderful way to explore light, angles, composition and qualities of your subject you might otherwise have missed.

Think about ways to get up over the top of your subject or scene. Aerial and drone photography represent some extreme approaches, and filmmakers often achieve powerful overhead shots with a crane, but anything you have around the house or in your yard that can give you some additional height is a good candidate for changing your perspective and helping you to achieve a birds-eye view.

You could climb to the top of the stairs, set up a ladder, stand on your table or countertop, shoot from a balcony, or for the more adventurous and young at heart, you could even climb a tree. Shooting through the branches adds wonderful depth and context.

So get clicking and start experimenting now for your September entries. We look forward to seeing your submissions.
